IMPORTANT INFORMATION

If you disagree with your assessment

If you think this assessment is wrong, check all the details on this notice with those on your tax return. If you think there is a mistake, please phone us on the numbers listed below. You can write to us and object to the assessment if you still disagree with it. Objecting to an assessment is a legal process. Information about how to lodge an objection are available from www.ato.gov.au under 'Objections, amendments, reviews', then 'Lodging an objection' or by phoning the numbers listed below. If you disagree with our decision on your objection you can apply for an independent, external review. When we give you our decision we will let you know if you can apply to the Administrative Appeals Tribunal for a review or appeal to the Federal Court.

We may amend your assessment

The law gives us time to review information you have given us. Generally, we have two years from the date of the income tax assessment but in some cases we have longer. If we find the information you provided was not correct we may amend this assessment. Information about how to object to an amended assessment is available www.ato.gov.au/notices

Record keeping

You must keep the records, receipts and other documentation you have used to prepare your return. Generally you need to keep them for five years. More information about record keeping is available www.ato.gov.au/notices

Explanation of terms used in your notice of assessment

Tax on taxable income

We calculate the amount of tax you pay on your taxable income. We work it out based on the information in your tax return. This amount may be nil.

PAYG credits and other entitlements

Includes any credits or interest entitlements that have been taken into account in working out your refund or amount owing. An example of these credits is any tax that was deducted by your employer or bank from payments they made to you during the financial year.
